A Letter from the Pastor

Dear St. Malachy Parishioners,

"He was a burning and shining light and it has not been quenched, but only removed. Who would with good right be angry with me if I move it back again?" These words of Saint Bernard of Clairvaux can be found at the beginning of his biography of our patron, Saint Malachy of Armagh. They are fitting for our reflection this weekend, as we continue our Saint Malachy Novena and celebrate All Saints Day on Saturday morning and All Souls Day at all Sunday Masses. Just as we do whenever we honor our loved ones who have passed, Bernard is allowing the light that Malachy offered by the example of his life to shine for us all once more. The context of these words is his introduction to the biography, as he explains the value of telling the stories of the saints (see the quote pictured). Of course, we should acknowledge that the same biography acknowledges that it was Malachy's wish to die on All Souls Day (a wish the Lord granted), because he understood that it was our duty on this day as Christians, not only to honor our loved ones who have passed, but to pray for them. So, may we not forget this sacred obligation for this weekend, which continues throughout this whole month. Let us pray for our loved ones.

On this weekend of All Saints Day, may we also ponder how the examples of the saints teach us hope. Pope Leo has been reflecting on this in this Jubilee Year of Hope:

- "To hope is to connect... Irenaeus, teacher of unity, teaches us not to oppose, but to connect. There is intelligence not where there is separation, but where there is connection. To distinguish is useful, but to divide, never. Jesus is the eternal life in our midst: he brings opposites together and makes communion possible."

- "Like children digging in the earth, we are called to dig beneath the surface of life with curiosity and trust to discover the hidden treasure of God's Kingdom. Once freed from persecution, the early Christians began to excavate the land in places connected to Jesus' passion, death, and resurrection. Among them was the mother of Emperor Constantine, Empress Helena, who, motivated by her humble faith, found Jesus' cross in Jerusalem. Let us imitate her example by rekindling in our hearts the desire to clear away hardness and pride, uncovering the greatest treasure of all: friendship with the Lord Jesus."

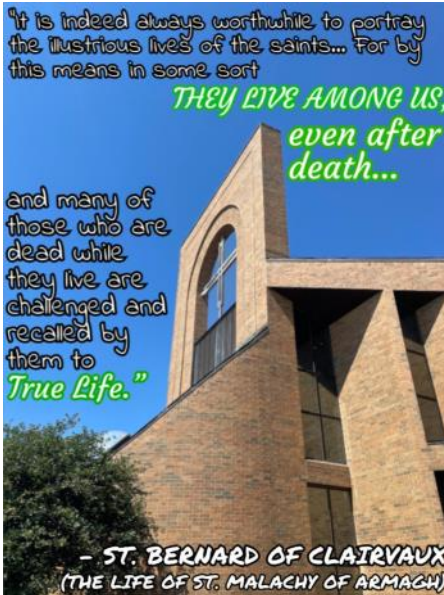

- "God reveals himself to those who are simple and humble of heart because they are open to receiving him. Their docility gives them great insight into the faith and enables them to follow the inspirations of the Holy Spirit. This is reflected in the people of Milan, who chose Saint Ambrose as their bishop by popular acclaim, even though he was still preparing for baptism at the time. It was also docility that led Ambrose to respond to that call, trusting in the grace of God. Today, we too are invited to become childlike."

- "When we allow material possessions to rule over us, we can fall into spiritual sadness. When we choose God, however, we choose hope and a life of forgiveness and mercy. On (the) feast day of Saint Francis of Assisi, we look at his life and that of Saint Clare. They are models of those who understood the Gospel and chose a life of poverty as Jesus did. Their choice continues to inspire many to remember that the earth belongs to everyone. Let us pray to be a Church that serves God and the poor and opens the door of hope to the world."

May the example of all who have gone before us inspire us to seek to grow in prayer and virtue. "If anyone loves righteousness, [Wisdom's] labors are virtues; for she teaches temperance and prudence, justice, and courage" (Wisdom 8:7).

In Christ through Mary,
