

My
Butterfly
Journal

September 23, 2015

Day: 1

Today my butterfly larve arrived.

It is hairy, very hairy.

It digs in its food.

It is less than a cm long.

And it is a very very tiny baby butterfly larve.

Today I learned that it takes about two weeks for a catfish egg to hatch to become a butterfly. I also learned that initially a monarch butterfly is black and hairy.

Day 3

Today I learned that a caterpillar and a butterfly do not have same parts. And that the caterpillar has its eyes
under its skin.

day 7

My caterpillar is in its cocoon.

It is inside it forming the butterfly.

It made its cocoon on Saturday.

and now it is done. It will probably hatch on Saturday.

day 9

My Butterfly larve is getting ready to spin its pupa, I know because it is in a j. I learned the body parts of a Butterfly.

October 2, 2015 day 10

My catterpillar is about to turn a J. Then it will be in its pupa. By Monday, it probably will be in its chrysalis.

Day 13

A couple days ago my butterfly hatched from its chrysalis.
Soon it will be a beautiful painted lady.

Day 2.4

My butterfly is gone, yesterday we let them go. When we let them go they all flew away. They will be everywhere.
I will see them again
