

My Butterfly
Journal

September 23, 2015

8

Day 1

Today my butterfly larva just arrived. It is blackish greyish. And it is also spiky. My butterfly larva is about a centimeter.

The name of my butterfly larva is a painted lady. I named my two butterfly larva. Cupcake and Cake.

Cupcake	Cake

September 24, 2015

Day 2

Today I learned about the life cycle of a caterpillar. Today I also learned that a butterfly was an adult.

September 25, 2015

Day 3

I learned that Monarchs fly to California and Mexico and Mexico City. I also learned that Monarchs fly south.

September 29, 2015

8

Day 7

I saw that my lava got bigger and fatter. It is now not small. It is also now not about a centimeter long.

Day 9 8 October, 1

I learned from Mrs. Wohltle that when the larva makes a J.

They are about to make a pupa.

I also learned that the larva
skin molds up.

May 10 8

October 2

then I come back to school
I think my to~~was~~ would be in their pupas. I also think that they might be in their pup.

October 5, 2015

F 8

Day 13

My lavas are both in their chrysalis. They are probably going to stay in their chrysalis for about a week.

October 13, 2015

Day 21

My pupas are now butterflies.
They are grey in the front of the wings and they are orange,
white, black and red in the back of there wings. They are pretty and beautiful and bright.

October 16, 2015 Day 24

Yesterday my butterflies came out of the tent. They were free. Today they are out there exploring the earth. I think they are having a fun time exploring.